WELCOME / BIENVENIDO

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the 10th Anniversary of the Uptown Arts Stroll. Ten years ago, local artists led by Mike Fitelson, the Manhattan Times, Community Board 12 and local businesses and institutions engaged in an effort to promote and celebrate the works of Northern Manhattan artists throughout the communities of Washington Heights and Inwood. What began as one day of arts exhibits and performances grew steadily throughout the years to become a month-long festival celebrating the arts and cultural landscape of the fast-changing communities of Upper Manhattan. From 155th to 218th streets, hundreds of artists and by organizations have embraced the Arts Stroll by becoming active participants and organizing arts events in traditional and non-traditional venues across the neighborhood including public spaces, restaurants, health and educational facilities. These artists and organizations have kindly provided the local community and visitors an opportunity to enjoy their performances and artistic offerings, and have challenged all of us with their innovative ideas and perspectives, turning the community into a vibrant place to live and take pleasure in, as well as a destination for visitors from other parts of the city and beyond.

Since 2007, NoMAA, in partnership with the Manhattan Times, has been the main organizer of the Uptown Arts Stroll, turning this event into a month-long celebration. This year we are thrilled to honor those forward-thinking community members that began this effort; those who understood that arts and cultural activity are fundamental in the creation of vibrant and sustainable communities. We celebrate and thank Mike and the Manhattan Times for their leadership in this effort. We celebrate and thank Community Board 12, including Martin Collins and Zead Ramadan, for their relentless support to the Stroll. We thank all of our local artists for their continued contributions, and for improving the quality of life in our neighborhoods uptown. On the 10th anniversary of the Uptown Arts Stroll, we are also delighted to celebrate the work and success of Pulitzer Prize winning writer and playwright Quiara Alegria Hudes, author of In the Heights and Water by the Spoonful. Ms. Alegria, a resident of Washington Heights, is one of our artists that inspire us and make us proud. We thank Quiara for her contributions to theatre and literature, and congratulate her in all her achievements.

The Uptown Arts Stroll would not have been possible without the support of artists, institutions, businesses, and our elected officials. To all of you, our most sincere gratitude.

On behalf of NoMAA Board of Directors and staff, I welcome you to the 10th Anniversary Uptown Arts Stroll.

Enjoy!

Queridos Amigos:

Bienvenido al décimo aniversario del Paseo de las Artes del Alto Manhattan. Diez años atrás, artistas locales encabezados por Mike Fitelson, the Manhattan Times y Community Board 12 además de negocios e instituciones locales se comprometieron con el esfuerzo de promover y celebrar el trabajo de artistas en las comunidades de Washington Heights e Inwood del alto Manhattan.

Comenzamos con un día de espectáculos y exposiciones de arte, y a lo largo de los años, se ha convertido en un festival de un mes que celebra las artes y la cultura en una comunidad en constante cambio del alto Manhattan. Entre las calles 155 y 218th, cientos de artistas y organizaciones de arte han acogido el Paseo y se han hecho partícipes activos al organizar eventos de arte y cultura en lugares tradicionales y no tradicionales incluyendo: espacios públicos, restaurantes y centros de salud y educación. Estos artistas y organizaciones promueven la oportunidad de que la comunidad local y visitantes puedan disfrutar de las artes, y nos han empujado a todos con sus ideas y perspectivas innovadoras, convirtiendo la comunidad en un espacio dinámico para vivir y disfrutar, al igual que un destino para visitantes de otras partes de la ciudad y de más allá.

Desde 2007, NoMAA, en colaboración con el Manhattan Times, ha sido el organizador principal del Paseo de las Artes del Alto Manhattan, convirtiéndolo en una celebración de un mes. Este año, tenemos el placer de homenajear a los miembros de la comunidad con visión que empezaron este proyecto, aquellos que entendieron que las artes y la actividad cultural son fundamentales en la creación de comunidades vibrantes y sostenibles. Celebramos y le damos las gracias a Mike y el Manhattan Times por su liderazgo en este sentido. También felicitamos y agradecemos al Community Board 12, incluyendo a Martin Collins y a Zead Ramadan, por su apoyo incansable al Paseo. Le damos las gracias a todos los artistas locales por sus continuados esfuerzos en el mundo de las artes, y por mejorar la calidad de vida de los barrios del alto Manhattan.

Con el décimo aniversario del Paseo de las Artes, estamos encantados de celebrar el trabajo y el éxito de la dramaturga y ganadora del Pulitzer Quiara Alegria Hudes, residente de Washington Heights, de la que nos sentimos orgullosos. Le damos las gracias a Quiara por sus contribuciones al teatro y la literatura, y le felicitamos por todo lo que ha realizado.

El Paseo de las Artes no sería posible sin el apoyo de los artistas, instituciones, negocios y nuestros oficiales electos. A todos, nuestro más sincero agradecimiento.

De parte de la junta directiva y el personal de NoMAA, le damos la bienvenida al 10mo Aniversario del Paseo de las Artes.

¡Que se divierta!

2013 UPTOWN ART STROLL HONOREES

Community Board 12, MANHATTAN

"I am honored to work with such a great, diverse group of individuals on Community Board 12," states George Fernandez, Jr., Chair of Community Board 12, Manhattan, "and extremely proud of our history with the Uptown Arts Stroll."

Community Board 12 (CB12) is one of 59 community boards in New York City. Community boards are advisory bodies consisting of 50 unsalaried members, half of whom are nominated by their district's City Council members. Board members are appointed by the Borough President from among active, involved people that either reside, work, or have some other significant interest in the neighborhood.

The Uptown Arts Stroll started in 2003 with founding support from CB12. The success of the first stroll led to the Board's collaboration with the Washington Heights-Inwood arts community, the Manhattan Times, Artists Unite, and the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation to plan the second Stroll the following year with a spectacular opening reception at the High Bridge Park water tower culminating with a fireworks display to the delight of over 700 attendees.

Zead Ramadan, 2003 CB12 Chair, and Martin Collins, 2003 2nd Vice Chair and Economic Development Committee Chair, led the Board's effort in the Stroll's planning. Together with the leadership of Mike Fitelson, Manhattan Times editor; Rosa Naparstek and Peter Ferko, Artists Unite; Jane Schachat, Northern Manhattan Parks Administrator; and the late Homer Young Kennedy, III, Assistant Chair of CB12 Parks & Cultural Affairs Committee, the Stroll's foundation was established. Local artists, businesses, and community groups connected at the planning meetings and the Uptown Arts Stroll grew from a one-day event in November 2003, to a weekend in June 2004, and finally, into the month-long celebration it is today. Community Board 12 is proud to be honored as an Uptown Arts Stroll founder.

ManhattanTimes

Every week, for 13 years, the award-winning Manhattan Times has spoken directly to tens of thousands of readers throughout Northern Manhattan - en su propio idioma.

Founded in 1999 by Luis Miranda, Roberto Ramírez, Sr., and David Keisman, The Manhattan Times covers the local news and events that matter most. The paper serves as the bridge between the diverse language, ethnic, and religious communities of Northern Manhattan. As the only bilingual community newspaper in New York, The Manhattan Times has consistently provided editorial coverage of relevant issues. The multi-faceted focus of the paper provides insightful and comprehensive coverage in all fields— from politics and schools, arts and culture, health and science, parks and recreation, and food and entertainment.

The Manhattan Times is honored to have co-founded the Uptown Arts Stroll in 2003. Since its inception, the paper has sought to emphasize and promote the rich culture that exists in our neighborhoods with constant coverage in all areas of the arts. Our work with the Stroll has proven an exemplary partnership that has provided countless artists with a platform upon which to showcase their talents, and has proven Northern Manhattan's rightful place as an extraordinary destination in which talent is born and cultivated.

Our record of service to Northern Manhattan is born of a profound commitment to this community and we are proud to have distinguished ourselves as the paper of record for our residents, en inglés y en español. The Manhattan Times is free and is published 52 times a year. Every Wednesday, over 25,000 copies are delivered to hundreds of street boxes, local businesses, nonprofit organizations, residential buildings, and countless distribution sites all throughout Northern Manhattan. Additionally, subscriptions are offered to those who wish to receive copies to their residence and/or business.

MIKE FITELSON

Mike has worked to build the arts community of Northern Manhattan for over 10 years.

While working for the Manhattan Times, the bilingual community newspaper of Washington Heights and Inwood, he co-founded and organized the first Uptown Arts Stroll in 2003. It was Northern Manhattan's first arts festival in recent memory. That one-day event has grown into a month-long festival showcasing the community's performing and visual artists and the area's finest cultural institutions.

In 2012 Fitelson was hired to help launch the United Palace of Cultural Arts (UPCA's), a new cultural arts center at the 83-year-old United Palace in Washington Heights. UPCA's mission is to transform the lives of youth, local residents and broader audiences by engaging them in performing and visual arts that originate from the neighborhood and around the world. UPCA hosts community arts programs, provides a home for local artists to create and present their work, and presents and produces events in the world-class United Palace Theatre. Fitelson was promoted to executive director in March 2013.

Fitelson has been a professional photographer for over 20 years. In recent years Fitelson's fine art work has explored the Northern Manhattan community. "Northern Manhattan as Muse" is an ongoing series of portraits of local artists whose work is inspired by living in Northern Manhattan. The portraits are paired with essays about their creative process that are exhibited with examples of their artwork that focus on Northern Manhattan. For "Message Delayed" Fitelson photographs visitors to an annual Dominican street festival while they hold a sign stating what they are thinking about. The images remain hidden until they are printed on canvas and hung the following year. 2013, for which Fitelson was awarded a NoMAA creative grant, will be the third year of the 10-year project.

QUIARA ALEGRÍA HUDES

In the less than ten years since Quiara Alegría Hudes began her playwriting career, she has gained recognition as a new American playwright whose voice is ambitious, urban, spiritual, and musical. Hudes came to New York in 2004 and began working on two projects within a month of her arrival.

The first was a drama about Puerto Rican men and women serving in the United States Marines called Elliot, A Soldier's Fugue (Pulitzer finalist 2007). The second project was writing the book In the Heights (Tony Award Best Musical 2008 and Pulitzer finalist 2009). Last year, Hudes was awarded the 2012 Pulitzer Prize for Drama for her play Water by the Spoonful. She is the first Latina to win the coveted prize.

Though Hudes wrote poems, stories, and essays from early childhood, it was just her way of having fun. Paper and pencils were like Barbies to her, even at a young age. But this Philadelphia-born writer was formally trained as a musician. After graduating from Central High School, she became the first in her family to go to college, graduating from Yale University cum laude.

Other works include Barrio Grrrl!, 26 Miles, and Yemaya's Belly. Hudes has been generously supported by numerous organizations, including a United States Artists Fontanals Fellowship, a Joyce Fellowship, an Aetna New Voices Fellowship, the Roe Green Award, and residencies at New Dramatists, Page 73, the O'Neill Theatre Center, and the Sundance Theatre Lab.

Hudes now lives in Washington Heights with her husband and her two children. She adores her new neighborhood as much as her childhood West Philadelphia—and that's saying a lot. For Hudes, the communities that nourish and challenge her become the communities she writes about. Hudes continues to write plays and musicals. She has only scratched the surface.

Morris-Jumel Mansion (MJM) is Manhattan's oldest private residence. The Mansion has seen over 200 years of New York history, ranging from serving as George Washington's headquarters during the Revolutionary War to the summer country residence of Eliza Jumel, the wealthiest woman in New York during the nineteenth century.

Today, the Mansion serves as a non-profit arts and history organization for New York City and beyond. It strives to be a resource for historians, students, scholars and the general public. The museum has a yearly visitorship of approximately 16,000, with close to 7,000 school children from all 5 boroughs experiencing one of the field studies in art, history or science. In recent years, the Mansion has expanded its outreach to the Upper Manhattan area and strives to be an arts partner to other arts organizations such as People's Theatre Project (PTP) and NoMAA.
